

Is your child finding the back to school routine difficult?

Are they...?

- Displaying different behaviours and emotions
- Bad-tempered and irritable
- Struggling with their sleep
- Sluggish and unmotivated
- Tearful
- Moody
- Skipping meals
- Worried or nervous
- Exhausted, fatigued, or just tired

It's important that you and your child know that changing routines in the current circumstances can be normal and new routines can be formed.

TOP TIPS

- Setting an alarm in the morning will help add structure to the day.
- Eating breakfast will give your child an energetic boost to start their day.
- Get some fresh air, even if this is having meals outside or going for a walk.
- Cook together, you could stock up the freezer by cooking in bulk.
- Be creative and make a rota to show your child their daily routine.
- Make a reward chart to show progress and rewards for daily achievements.
- Call family and friends, communicating with others helps you stay connected and less lonely.
- Have a consistent bedtime, a good night's sleep is important. Send your child to bed 15 minutes early so they can unwind and relax before going to sleep.
- Reduce your child's time on devices to relax their minds.
- Take some time out for yourself to relax, you are important too.
- Don't pressure or judge yourself if things aren't going according to plan, you are trying to do your best.
